

Star Time

Star Time by Henry Melton

The plan always worked for the bloodthirsty Cerik, the supernova would destroy human civilization and telepathic Sharon Dae knew nothing could prevent humanity from becoming another tasty slave race. When she sensed a stranger, Abe Whiting nearby, hunting for UFO debris with his computers and gadgets, how could she know that this techno wizard she must betray would soon brave the collapse of the world, cobbling together fried scraps and pieces in an impossible rescue attempt for her, a strange white-haired trickster of a girl who slipped through his life for only one afternoon?

It all starts here, the first volume of a multi-thousand year tale of human destiny from the mind of Henry Melton.

The Project Saga

starts today and reaches into a future where humanity has shaped worlds and moved planets in the grandest engineering Project of all time.

Henry Melton, author of the Darrell Award-winning Emperor Dad, is frequently on the road, taking inspiration from the small towns and scenic vistas he finds everywhere. Having written short science fiction for the magazines and anthologies for years, and making an impact with classics such as his gaming story Catacomb, he is now concentrating on science fiction novels.
